REV. DR. CURRY'S SERMONS-METHODIST SUN-DAY-SCHOOL UNION-PAINFUL ACCIDENT-MORE SLEET AND SNOW-A CASE OF INTIMI-DATION-SURPRISE TO A PASTOR-THE HOO resist, and will never yield. Nearly all the TRADE.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] DECEMBER 18, 1876.

Rev. Dr. Curry, of Richmond, preached twice at the First Baptist church, in this city, yesterday. On each occasion he had a crowded congregation, and his discourses, which were marked by great ability and will assume this much, and says to-night earnestness, were heard with close attention, and produced a profound impression. Dr. Curry's audience in the afternoon was composed of members of all the denominations. .

The regular meeting of the Methodist Sunday-School Union was held yesterday afternoon at the Market-Street church, and, as usual on such occasions, a very large audience was present. Addresses were delivered by Rev. J. Powell Garland and Rev. Dr. L. M. Lee. A very attractive programme, consisting of singing, recitations, &c., was carried out. The reports from the superintendents of all the schools show that the organization of the Union is 1,110, with an average attendance of 789. Mr. Michael Rabily, one of the chief clerks in the post-office, while passing down Sycamore street this morning, slipped upon the ice, fell, and broke the bones of his left arm just above the wrist. The ground was covered with a heavy sleet this morning, with the rain still coming down and freezing as fast as it fell. The streets were very slippery and walking dangerous. This afternoon snow has been falling rapidly.

As a matter of political intimidation it may be mentioned that the barn belonging to Fred. Jeter, a colored Democrat, living in Dinwiddie county, which contained about 1,000 pounds of tobacco, was set fire to and burned several nights ago. There seems to be no question that the act was done on account of Jeter's opinions. Petersburg is to have a novelty shortly in the way of a pigeon-shooting match, for The new pastor of the Market-Street church, Rev. Mr. Garland, on taking possession of the parsonage on Saturday, found it in charge of a number of his lady parishioners, who had filled the storeroom with provisions and done many other things to add to the comfort of the incoming family. Mr. Garland was much surprised at this unexpected kindness, and his thanks were expressed in a very earnest manner. Some four thousand hogs, valued at eleven dollars per head, brought from Southwest Virginia and East Tennessee, have found a a market in Petersburg this season. This number will be largely increased before the season is ended. ROBIN ADAIR.

BUCKINGHAM COUNTY. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] DECEMBER 13, 1876.

We have had some very cold weather lately, which has enabled some of our people to get ice. Some were not expecting it so soon, and did not get their ponds and houses ready, and for the same reason some people got their turnips and other things frozen and seriously injured. Editors Dispatch: Rev. S. A. Repass,

D., has decided to remain in his present position in the Theological Seminary, and has therefore felt constrained from a sense of duty to decline the presidency of Roanoke College, of which he is a graduate and trustee. There is much regret expressed at his declination. The Board of Trused at his declination. The Board of Trustees will meet in February to elect a president of the College. The friends of the College are raising $1,500 to purchase the private library of the late President Bittle, containing 3,000 volumes, which will be added to the College library. An effort is being made to collect $1,500 to secure a fine collection of shells from a gentleman in Georgia for the museum. President Bittle arranged the terms of purchase just before his death. The number of students is larger than at any time since the war. The attendance at present is about equal to the entire enrol ment last session. All of the southern States are represented. Rev. Dr. Leonidas Rosser has been con ducting a meeting in the Methodist church for the past three weeks. The interest seems to be increasing. Many persons have OBSERVER. professed conversion.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA SENATE. - The Demthe Senate under Gleaves, the present president, in case the committee report adversely to Simpson. This determination upsets the former plan, which was for Simpson to form with the Democratic senators a separate Senate. The reasons for the change are a desire to cooperate effectively with the movement of Governor Hampton and the Wallace House to memorialize Congress, and the hope that by retaining their seat under Gleaves they will protect the threatened judiciary.

The Outlook at Washington, [Special dispatch to the Philadelphia Times.]

WASHINGTON, December 17.—The Demo-cratic leaders have been actively canyassing the situation for the past forty-eight hours, with the result that their line of policy is assuming definite shape, their courage is growing, and the outlook is brightening. Mr. Hewitt is authority for the statement that if the Senate should arrogate for its presiding officer the power to pass judicially on the electoral count, the House will Democratic members have been seen individually, and all that have been seen are fully agreed upon this point. Mr. Hewitt further thinks that a large number of the House Republicans would not support such an assumption on the part of the Senate. He does not think himself that the Senate that if the right men are put upon the joint committee of fourteen, which the two houses have authorized to try and devise some plan acceptable to both, for counting known to be anxious for a compromise. Morton has determined to push his bill, and Hewitt says that he personally would vote for it if he could get no better. Even under that bill the Democrats feel that they have an advantage in which it provides that the consent of both Houses shall be requisite to cast aside the vote of any State; also its provision that where two sets of returns shall come up from any State that one only shall be counted, which both houses shall agree is the legal vote of the State. Double returns are certain to come up from Louisiana, Florida, and South Carolina, and under Morton's bill the House yould have the right to refuse to agree that any return from those States was legal which should be proven to be illegal by the testimony taken by its southern committees, and such returns could not then be counted. This bill, however, is not acceptable to all the House Democrats, and will not be the first compromise offered by them. THE DEMOCRATIC PLAN.

They have the best of the situation and know it. Their plan, as explained by Mr. Hewitt to-night, will be to first proffer to the which preparations are now being made. It will be the first sport of the kind ever witcountry in the unenviable position of holding that what is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander. Under the twentysecond joint rule Mr. Hewitt thinks a peaceable solution of the difficulty would be had. It would act in two ways. It might first throw the election into the House, through the throwing out by that body of the votes of Louisiana, Florida, and South Carolina. If the two houses should get to playing the game of object and counter-object, it might result in the throwing out of all the electoral votes. In that event the legal result would be that no electors have been appointed, consequently no election has been held, and under the Constitution a new election would have to be ordered.
